SUMMARY OF NEW RESEARCH FINDINGS

As an advanced research work of the State compensation liability, this doctoral thesis has brought to knowledge the following contributions:

First, it has developed a new concept of the State compensaton liability and pointed out some specific characteristics of the compensation liability of the State in comparion with those of the normal liability for compensation for non-contractual damages.

Second, the thesis has researched and summarized the foreign experience in the State compensation liability and on this basis it drawed lessons learnt for Vietnam.

Third, it has analysed the characteristics of the law of Vietnam on the State compensation liability through out different periods, especially in the period since the 2009 Law on the State compensation liability has been passed and it evaluated the status quo of the current law of Vietnam on the State compensation liability and pointed out its shortcomings.

Fourth, the thesis has offered viewpoints and directions for improving the law on the State compensation liability as well as specific proposals for law improvement in this regard.
